

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A control signal unit includes a substrate, a signal line formed on the substrate, and an insulating layer covering the signal line. A contact hole exposes the signal line with a predetermined width. The contact hole has a lateral side bordering on the signal line. The lateral side of the contact hole is longer than the width of the contact hole. A subsidiary signal pad is connected to the signal line through the contact hole.

G E O R G E W E B B